Deborah La Fetra is a principal attorney, running PLF's Free Enterprise Project to defend economic liberties, freedom of contract, tort reform, and limited government. This includes the Economic Liberty Project to protect and promote the right to earn a living by challenging government regulations that impose onerous license restrictions or other impediments to the entrepreneurial spirit of business owners. She also manages PLF's Amicus Project, supervising the filing of friend of the court briefs in state and federal courts across the country from trial courts to the United States Supreme Court in all the subject areas in which PLF litigates.

Ms. La Fetra joined Pacific Legal Foundation in 1990. She is admitted to the bars of California, Arizona, and the United States Supreme Court. Her most recent published articles are Medical Marijuana and the Limits of the Compassionate Use Act: Ross v. Ragingwire Telecommunications, 12 Chapman L. Rev. 71 (2008); A Moving Target: Property Owners' Duty to Prevent Criminal Acts on the Premises, 28 Whittier Law Rev. 409 (2006), and Kick It Up a Notch: First Amendment Protection for Commercial Speech, 54 Case Western Res. L. Rev. 1205 (2004).

Ms. La Fetra received her B.A. with honors in Political Science and History from Claremont McKenna College in 1987, and her J.D. from the University of Southern California Law Center in 1990.
